

Earth Day

The UNESCO proclaimed World Book and Copyright Day is celebrated all over the world for providing opportunities to reflect on ways to better disseminate the culture of the written word. In many countries, books, comics, magazines, newspapers and even posters are rare commodities and the classroom environment is the only place where children come into contact with words in the written form. This year, UNESCO has launched Kids Book Cover Competition 2014 for students from all over the world. Young students of GD Goenka have also participated in this competition and have sent 31 entries to UNESCO. Gaurav Waraj, a professor in the School of Planning and Architecture, New Delhi (also connected to TERI) conducted an interactive session with MSP students on School buildings and environment and How environment plays a vital role in our lives, which was not only a very effective delivery of ideas to students but also a new learning to all present including teachers.
