The assembly hall buzzed with excitement as students participated in fun activities designed to help them connect. With lively music and interactive games, the event was all about fostering connections and creating lasting memories.

We celebrated Janmashtami with devotion and joy, reflecting on Lord Krishna's teachings from the Bhagavad Gita. His wisdom on performing our duties with love and faith, while detaching from the outcome continues to inspire us in all aspects of life. May these teachings guide us to find purpose and fulfilment in our journey.

JANMASHTAMI CELEBRATIONS IN IBPYP

Our IB PYP students embraced the spirit of Janmashtami with great enthusiasm, participating in a day filled with cultural festivities and friendly competition. The celebration featured a captivating dance performance that highlighted the joy and devotion associated with this auspicious occasion.

One of the event's highlights was the thrilling Inter-House Dahi Handi competition, where students from all four houses eagerly cheered on their teams. Demonstrating impressive courage and teamwork, the students formed human pyramids to reach and break the pots filled with flowers. Cycas House achieved a remarkable victory, breaking the pot in just 16 seconds!

Wishing everyone a Happy and Joyous Janmashtami!

SCIENCE IN ACTION

Nurturing Curiosity: Let's Have a Moment of Science

Hands-on experiments are crucial for young children as they foster curiosity, critical thinking, and practical learning experiences. Our "Let's Have a Moment of Science" activity allowed Year 4 and 5 students to demonstrate their creativity and understanding of scientific concepts. They presented experiments on light, sound, and food tests, applying these principles to real-world scenarios. Using everyday materials like mirrors, spoons, and torches, students illustrated the concepts of light and sound. Our budding chemists impressed everyone with their colorful reactions and knowledge of food components, using simple items like baking soda and vinegar. These educational presentations were a joy to watch, with students eagerly conducting experiments on their own.

On 30th July 2024, our students had the opportunity to visit The Energy and Resources Institute (TERI) as part of their Collaborative Sciences project. This year's research focus was on “Exploring the Role of Group 4 Sciences in Sustainable Housing Solutions vs. Prevailing Techniques,” with TERI serving as an exemplary model for sustainable development.

During the visit, students delved into advanced practices such as EAT technology for eco-friendly construction, the use of specialized plants for water purification through bioremediation, and the application of biofuels for energy production. They learned how sustainable materials and methods can contribute to a cleaner, pollution-free environment and how these innovations can be integrated into everyday life.

Engaging directly with TERI's experts, the students posed insightful questions and gained a deeper understanding of sustainability. TERI's campus, designed with the very principles it advocates, provided the perfect backdrop for this educational experience.

The visit proved to be both enlightening and inspiring, offering our students a wealth of knowledge and a renewed commitment to sustainability!
